Prayers . . .

Please remember all of our parishioners who are in hospitals and nursing homes and our home-bound. Also, please pray for our deceased parishioners and loved ones, especially Felicia Mancuso.

In Remembrance of Hiroshima (August 6) and Nagasaki (August 9)

We Remember Hiroshima and Nagasaki
And the skies rained down fire.

Hiroshima. Nagasaki.

In the gardens of those cities the agony began.
The images of flames, smoke, destruction.

The smell of burning flesh.

The taste of ashes on the tongue.
Hiroshima. Nagasaki.

We ask forgiveness again, decades later.
And we will continue to ask forgiveness.

Through our acts of contrition,
May we learn to act as peacemakers,
So peace may be the restitution
We offer humanity.

Amen.

Sadako Sasaki and the Paper Cranes

Sadako Sasaki was two years old when the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. She was two kilometers away from where the bomb exploded. Most of Sadako's neighbors died, but Sadako wasn't injured at all, at least not in any way people could see. One day in seventh grade, Sadako became so dizzy that she fell down and couldn't get up. Sadako's parents took her to the Hospital and found out that she had leukemia. At that time they called leukemia the "A-bomb disease". Almost everyone who got this disease died, and Sadako was scared. Shortly thereafter, her best friend, Chizuko, came to visit her. Chizuko brought some origami (folding paper). She told Sadako of a legend. She explained that the crane, a sacred bird in Japan, lives for a hundred years, and if a sick person folds 1,000 paper cranes, then that person would soon get well. After hearing the legend, Sadako decided to fold 1,000 cranes. Sadako's family visited her in hospital to talk to her and to help her fold cranes. After she folded 500 cranes she felt better and the doctors said she could go home, but the dizziness and fatigue returned and she had to go back to the hospital. Sadako kept folding cranes even though she was in great pain. Not long afterwards, with her family standing by her bed, Sadako went to sleep peacefully, never to wake up again. She had folded a total of 644 paper cranes. Thirty-nine of Sadako's classmates felt saddened by the loss of their close friend and decided to form a paper crane club to honor her. Students from 3,100 schools and from 9 foreign countries gave money to the cause. On May 5, 1958, a monument was built in her honor. It is now known as the Children's Peace Monument, and is located close to the spot where the atomic bomb was dropped. Children from all over the world still send folded paper cranes to be placed beneath Sadako's statue. In so doing, they make the same wish which is engraved on the base of the statue:

"This is our cry, This is our prayer, Peace in the world"

Please don't start dropping items off but call Deacon Steve at 607-648-2155 so the sub-committee can decide what we need. Thank you.
